If you study Architecture and town planning, please first have a look at this website.

Exchange program Overseas students: Please read the following information carefully. In case of doubts, please contact the IO. For detailed questions, we will provide you with the study field's advisors in due time. Students interested in Architecture-related courses can also have a look at this specific document.

All exchange students can choose courses among all study programs offered at the University of Stuttgart. The following tips should support you in how to find information about courses you are planning to take during your exchange period at the University of Stuttgart via our course portal C@MPUS.

English Course Overview

This overview can serve as a starting point to help you explore our available course offerings in English: Course-Overview_UStuttgart.xlsx. The list includes regularly offered one-semester courses from different faculties. Please note that the overview does not include complete listings of Architecture Design Studios and Seminars, English-taught Master's programs, language courses, or Key Qualifications (SQ & FÜSQ). For these areas, you can use the general search via C@MPUS as outlined below or have a look at the respective university websites.

Module and course information

All courses offered at the University of Stuttgart are listed on the online platform C@MPUS. The portal provides you with course descriptions including ECTS points, language of instruction, and course schedule.

> Modules: Studies are organized in modules. A module is an umbrella term for different courses/lectures, workshops, laboratories, exercises, etc. that have a common subject and come as a package in the curriculum of regular students at the University of Stuttgart.
> To receive the whole amount of credits at the end, students must participate in all the offered teaching typologies belonging to the module.

Please note: the final course catalogues (e.g., with the courses' schedule and locations) will be published in February/March for the following summer semester and in August/September for the following winter semester.

☝ Tip: Refer to the course offer of the summer or winter semester of the previous academic year!
Example: Interested in courses of the winter semester 2025/26? Look for courses that have been offered in the winter semester 2024/25!

Please follow the link to the course platform C@MPUS: https://campus.uni-stuttgart.de/cusonline/ee/ui/ca2/app/desktop/#/login?$ctx=lang=en.

If necessary, the language can be changed to German in the top right corner. Choose either the house icon next to the login button on the top of the left side, or the "continue without login" button on the right side. You will come to a page with these five categories:

"All Study Programs"

There are two ways we recommend finding courses for your exchange semester: The first way is through the category "All Study Programs" ("Studienangebot"). You see a list of all Bachelor's and Master's programs offered at the University of Stuttgart. Select the program you are interested in. You may start with the category "96 Exchange program", but you may also try the regular Bachelor's and Master's programs.

The first level is the module, indicated with an M in an orange square.
Clicking the "+" symbol, you will find the courses included in the module.
P means exam ("Prüfung")
LV means course ("Lehrveranstaltung"):

If you open an LV-course, you will see more details about the course. If there are several options listed, it doesn't mean you must choose all of them!

☝ Tip: If "Time (1st session)" is in October, the course is offered in the winter semester; if it is in April, the course is offered in the summer semester!
Please note that the class time schedule may vary from semester to semester!

Clicking on the name of the course brings you to the course overview with more details:

If you need further Content Description than in the course overview (see above), the module's description can be of help:

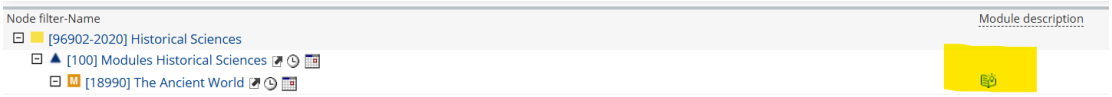
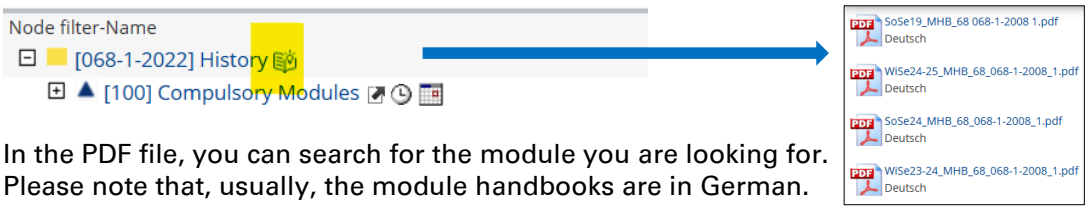
In the module list (M in the orange square), click on the little book symbol near the module's name:



Module handbooks

Every one of our degree programs has a module handbook ("Modulhandbuch"), where all modules related to the program are listed.
In general, these are intended for degree-seeking students, but the information about the courses contained within is useful for anyone who wants to study here.

To find the module handbook, choose the category: All Study Programs and click on the program you are interested in (Bachelor's or Master's program, NO exchange program!).
Then, click on the little book at the end of the lines.
We recommend selecting the module handbook issued in the most recent semester (it contains modules from the winter and the summer semesters):



In the PDF file, you can search for the module you are looking for.
Please note that, usually, the module handbooks are in German.

"Course catalog"

The second way you may go to find courses is through the category Course Catalog ("Angebotene Lehrveranstaltungen"):

a) If you do not know yet which courses you want to take, proceed as follows:

In the field Term, choose the semester one year ago to see courses, which might most probably be offered again once you are in Stuttgart.

S stands for summer semesters; W stands for winter semesters.

In the field Curriculum, choose the Bachelor's or Master's program you assume to find courses that interest you. Moreover, the drop-down menu contains the corresponding exchange programs (e.g., "Mechanical Engineering, Exchange program").

In the field Organisation, you could choose a faculty or institute whose course offerings you are interested in (most organizations are listed), but you can also leave it empty.

On the right-hand side, where it says Filter, you may select the language of instruction.

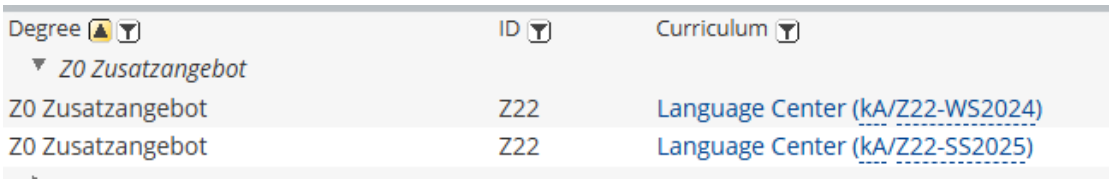
b) If you know the name of the course or a keyword, use the filter line:

Language Center courses

In case you would like to opt for a course not belonging to any study program, please go back to the square "All Study Programs" and choose the category Z0 Zusatzangebot to find offers from the language center (German courses, foreign languages, intercultural workshops, etc.).



Degree	ID	Curriculum
Z0 Zusatzangebot
Z0 Zusatzangebot	Z22	Language Center (kA/Z22-WS2024)
Z0 Zusatzangebot	Z22	Language Center (kA/Z22-SS2025)

European Credit Transfer System

European Credit Transfer System

In the course overview, you may find the indication “semester hours” instead of the course credits. You can infer the ECTS amount from the semester hours in this way:

> 1 semester hour (“Semesterwochenstunde”) = 45 min = 1,5 credits (ECTS)
> A course = usually 2 semester hours = 90 min = 3 credits (ECTS)

Course registration

You have to register for your classes within the C@MPUS portal. This is only possible after application, admission, and enrollment with the university.
The period to register for courses might differ from course to course and would start only some weeks before the semester starts.
