

The alumni of York University distinguish themselves by redefining what it means to succeed. Each year, York University celebrates alumni who have realized extraordinary achievements and made remarkable contributions to York and their communities by presenting them with Bryden Alumni Awards.

The awards are named in honour of Bruce Bryden, a member of York's inaugural undergraduate class. Mr. Bryden was the founding president of the York University Alumni Association (YUAA) and served for 20 years on York's Board of Governors until his death in 1992.

Award Categories

Outstanding Contribution Award

Presented to a York University alumna/alumnus in recognition of her/his dedication to the advancement of York University through exceptional service, commitment and/or contributions.

Pinnacle Achievement Award

Presented to a York University alumnus/alumna who has achieved true distinction in his/her professional life or in any field of endeavour and who, by his or her integrity and ability, inspires alumni, faculty, staff and students.

Redefine the Possible Award
