

First answer the six general knowledge questions. Then work out the lateral link between the answers.

What type of small hound was primarily bred to chase hares?

Which group of Ecuadorian islands in the Pacific takes its name from six species of giant turtle?

In mathematics, what name is given to the point of the graph where the axes meet at zero?

In biological classification, what is the smallest category, several of which make up one genus?

Which is the generic term for a scientific, speculative explanation for a principle under investigation?

What means "a monkey with no tail" and "to imitate"?