Course description

This is an introductory studio course, which will familiarize the student with principles, practice and vocabulary of package design. An introduction to the history and development of package design, and restrictions and challenges to package design will be discussed. An emphasis will be placed on preparing the students for creative, marketing, ethical and environmental decision making, such as sustainable design, and their responsibilities to the society. Students will be encouraged to include accessibility in their projects for the physically challenged and the aging population. Students will also explore the dynamic, contingent relationships between package design and its many cultural contexts in today’s fast changing global markets. The course links current package design/re-design practice and strategies to the realities of the retail environment.

Course structure

This practicum course will be comprised of lectures, projects, in-class exercises, individual and group critiques, large and small group discussions/presentations. This course meets four hours, once a week, for 12 weeks. Class time is divided between lectures, student presentations, discussions, critiques and guest presentations.

Three projects (one in-class, one group and one major) will define the work load and constitute the practicum part for this course. All preparatory/process work must be submitted with the finished projects.

Successful students will demonstrate:

* ability to apply the design process in the development of effective design solutions
* ability to articulate and present their own work, as well the ability to evaluate and critique constructively the works of others
* ability to work under of the design industry’s unique requirements and regulations
* an understanding of the basic issues of creating a marketable packaging system
* ability to coordinate and listen to a professional discussion
• achieve professional standards in presentation of comps and mock-ups
• use of best practices in file management

The following attitudes are required to succeed in this course:
• a desire to learn
• willingness to try new ways of doing things
• commitment to schedules and due dates
• willingness to engage in class activities and critiques
• willingness to adhere to specifications
• professional work ethics

Tools, materials, resources

Use of the design facilities and equipment is for the proper completion of assigned projects only. Privileges may be withheld for improper use. Lateness or incomplete work due to the stoppage of privileges is not an acceptable reason for missing deadlines. Students under suspension of privileges must find alternative means to complete projects.

Students are expected to bring current versions of the project files to class for in-class work and critique. Always bring to class a pad of visualizing paper, pencils and markers, tape, knives/scissors, glue, a backup device and a ruler with imperial scales.

During the year there will be many activities related to design happening in and around the GTA area. When information about these events becomes available, it will be announced in class and posted on the Notice Boards. Attendance at these events is highly recommended.

Course fees
For all non-majors (students not currently enrolled in the Bachelor of Design degree program in the Department of Design), there is a compulsory Supplementary Fee which covers the cost of some of the materials used in class. All Supplementary Fees (compulsory and voluntary) are payable in cash or certified cheque at the Department of Design, Administrative Offices, TEL Building within the first two weeks of term.

Grading
Note: All course work is to be submitted directly to the course instructor during scheduled course hours. Do not submit work to the Administrative Office.

Proportional weighting of the course work:
• Project 1 15% In-class exercise
• Project 2 10% Group research + presentation
• Project 3 65% Package design project (incl. research, rationale, process and etc. The process work and its quality, quantity, breadth and depth for all the parts will be graded together).
• Participation (incl. ethics + attendance) 10%

Please refer to project briefs for submission requirements. All projects will be graded at each stage of development outlined in the project briefs. Final course grades may be adjusted to conform to Program or Faculty grades distribution profiles.

Evaluation and grading
It is mandatory that all process work, including thumbnails, sketches, notes, annotations, preliminary and final designs and research be handed in to the instructor for review along with the final submission for each project.

Projects will be graded using the following criteria:
• Problem solving – The originality of the concepts and ideas and their relevance to the problem; lateral thinking abilities; analysis of project requirements; understanding of the problem and its parameters, goals and objectives.
• Concept development and refinement – the ability to take the original idea(s) and develop/improve and apply them, linear thinking abilities, critical evaluation of ideas and solutions.
• Technical execution – the skills and technical abilities as demonstrated throughout the problem from early sketches to finished state, translation of ideas to visually and technically refined forms.
• Presentation – the ability to communicate visually, verbally and in written form the direction of your problem solving process. Neatness and organization of submissions.

These criteria may be expressed in greater detail on the grade slips returned with each project. Grading is non-competitive within the course/section but based on professional standards as set by the Association of Registered Graphic Designers of Ontario. Except for the last submission, projects will be returned in class.

Process documentation provides a record of the student’s ability to utilize the design process and reveals the breadth and depth of exploration involved with each project. All process work, including research thumbnails, sketches, notes, and annotations must therefore be submitted to the instructor for review and evaluation.

Coming to each class is important. Lectures and briefings need to be heard first-hand. In-class exercises and group work provide an opportunity to reinforce and test theory immediately. And each student must present concepts and design solutions in individual, small group and full class critique situations. Assessment of participation and engagement in the learning process takes place on these occasions. It is essential that students keep up with the weekly work in this class in order to benefit from these learning opportunities.

Dropping the course
Friday, November 10, 2017 is the last day that a student can withdraw from this course without receiving a grade. Financial penalties may be involved and would be assessed depending on the precise date the course was dropped.

Attendance and lateness
Regular and punctual attendance is required professional behaviour in industry and therefore in this program. Attendance will be taken at the beginning of each class. Students are responsible for letting faculty know ahead of time if they are going to be late for class, or not attending. Being late twice equals one absence. Lateness of more than thirty minutes equals one absence. If a student is absent from four classes during the term, a grade of “F” will be given for the course. Exceptions to the lateness penalty for valid reasons such as illness, compassionate grounds, etc., may be entertained by the Course Instructor but will require supporting documentation (e.g. a doctor’s letter). Students will be responsible for all academic, financial penalties and consequences resulting from their non-attendance.

Student responsibilities

- Attendance will be taken at the beginning of each class and students are expected to be punctual. Students are responsible for letting faculty know if they are going to be late for class. Regular and punctual attendance is required professional behaviour in industry. Students are reminded that absence from class will mean that they will miss key contact time with faculty and will reflect in their performance.
- If you know you are going to miss or be late for a class, let your instructor know ahead of time. Leave a phone message or e-mail.
- It is the responsibility of the student to inform the Course Director, in a timely fashion, of any problems that may interfere with the student’s progress in the course.
- Students should refer to the University Calendar for the proper process of applying for Deferred Standing or requesting Aegrotat Standing, if such is applicable.
- It is the responsibility of the students to always back up their digital work. The hard drives on the lab computers are not intended for storage of student work and will be trashed of all files on a regular basis.

All students are expected to familiarize themselves with the following information (also available on the York University Secretariat Academic Standards, Curriculum and Pedagogy (ASCP) webpage http://www.yorku.ca/univsec/senate_cte_main_pages/ASCP.htm).

Academic honesty and Integrity

YSDN students are required to maintain high standards of academic integrity and are subject to the Senate Policy on Academic Honesty (http://www.yorku.ca/univsec/policies/document.php?document=69). There is also an academic integrity website with complete information about academic honesty. Students are expected to review the materials on the Academic Integrity website (http://www.yorku.ca/academicintegrity). Among other things the Senate Policy discusses offenses such as cheating, submission of one piece of work in satisfaction of two assignments without prior informed consent, impersonation, plagiarism and other misappropriation of the work of another, obstruction of the academic activities of another, aiding or abetting academic misconduct, etc. In particular, students taking Design courses should be mindful of the dangers of misappropriation and misrepresentation of another person’s images.
In the creation and presentation of all design practicum work, students who use the work of others must clearly state the extent and nature of the appropriation to their instructor. Failure to do so will constitute a breach of academic honesty. Penalties for breach of academic honesty may include:

- a failure in the course,
- failure in the course plus a notation of breach of academic honesty on the official transcript, or
- removal from the Program in Design.

All work is to be turned in personally to the Course Director during the officially scheduled class time. Assignments are to be handed in at the beginning of class on the due date unless otherwise specified. At York, under normal situations, the Design Office will NOT accept drop-off of student work. In the rare case of illness of the instructor on a due date, special arrangements can be made (between the Course Director and the Office) with the Office for the submission of student work.

In case of unusual circumstances, students at Sheridan may submit their work by depositing it into the drop-off mail slot, provided by the mail room at Sheridan. York and Sheridan are committed to respecting the religious beliefs and practices of all members of the community, and making accommodations for observances of special significance to adherents. Should any of the dates specified in this syllabus for an in-class test or examination pose such a conflict for you, contact the Course Director within the first three weeks of class. Similarly, should an assignment to be completed in a lab, practicum placement, workshop, etc., scheduled later in the term pose such a conflict, contact the Course Director immediately. Please note that to arrange an alternative date or time for an examination scheduled in the formal examination periods (December and April/May), students must complete an Examination Accommodation Form, which can be obtained from Student Client Services, Student Services Centre or online at http://www.registrar.yorku.ca/pdf/exam_accommodation.pdf. Further information on religious observance is available at https://w2prod.sis.yorku.ca/Apps/WebObjects/cdm.woa/wa/regobs.

Moreover, it is the responsibility of the instructor to maintain an appropriate academic atmosphere in the classroom, and the responsibility of the student to cooperate in that endeavour. Further, the instructor is the best person to decide, in the first instance, whether such an atmosphere is present in the class. A statement of the policy and procedures involving disruptive and/or harassing behaviour by students in academic situations is available on the York web site http://www.yorku.ca/univsec/policies/document.php?document=82. Please note that this information is subject to periodic update.
