Course Description

This course offers practical instruction in selected drumming and dance repertory from Ghana, West Africa. Students will be expected to learn hand and/or stick drumming techniques using a variety of African percussion instruments; sing songs related to specific drumming traditions and perform dance styles which are often integral to the presentation of such repertory.

Students are evaluated on their ability to learn and perform the material demonstrated in class (see below). Grades are also awarded for attendance; participation; teamwork and effort. There are no required readings or written assignments for this course: all material is to be learned orally. Students may only make audio/video recordings for their personal practice and development with permission from the course instructor. It is expected that students will supplement class learning through personal practice and study outside of class time. Group practice is encouraged.

Course Learning Objectives
The purpose of this course is to explore West African culture through music and dance. Upon completion of the course students:
• will be expected to perform all of the material taught in class in a concert environment
• will have developed a greater understanding of the cultural context from which the music/dance forms originated
• will have a greater understanding of the musical forms and devices used in West African music (for example: call and response patterns; multi-layered part playing; compositional structure and form)
• will have had exposure to African language(s) and an (increased) understanding of the relationship between the music and spoken language in such traditions
• will have gained an understanding of various historical and social practices associated with the performance of specific drumming traditions
• will have knowledge of a variety of West African instruments: their construction and basic maintenance.
• will have developed an appreciation for the team work and community spirit inherent in this type of performance practice.

Grading: The grading scheme for the course conforms to the 9-point grading system used in undergraduate programs at York (e.g., A+ = 9, A = 8, B+ = 7, C+ = 6, etc.). Assignments and tests will bear either a letter grade designation or a corresponding number grade (e.g. A+ = 90 to 100, A = 80 to 89, B+ = 75 to 79, B = 70 to 74, etc.)

(For a full description of York grading system see the York University Undergraduate Calendar – http://calendars.registrar.yorku.ca/pdfs/ug2009cal/calug09_5_acadinfo.pdf or the attached document)

Assignment Submission: Proper academic performance depends on students doing their work not only well, but on time. As there are no written assignments for this course, all ‘assignments’ are in a practical performance/demonstration form. Unless due to illness/injury (a doctor’s letter must be provided), all missed tests/performances will result in a grade of ‘0’.

Lateness Penalty: Assignments performed later than the scheduled date will be penalized (one letter grade for each week of class that the test is not made up). Exceptions to the lateness penalty for valid reasons such as illness, compassionate grounds, etc., may be entertained by the Course Instructor but will require supporting documentation (e.g., a doctor’s letter).

Missed Tests: Students with a documented reason for missing a course test, such as illness, compassionate grounds, etc., which is confirmed by supporting documentation, may request accommodation from the Course Instructor. (e.g., allowed to perform a make-up test on xx date.) Further extensions or accommodation will require students to submit a formal petition to the Faculty.
