Piano Master Class in Performance Technique and Preparation

Topics and Concepts

Course Learning Objectives
This course is divided into three separate components: pedagogy, literature and performance. Lectures alternate between the subjects weekly. The format of both topics is the same: lecture and practical application. Students are expected to have some prior training in piano. However, it is also designed for those students who wish to explore the wealth of piano literature in greater detail. Students who already teach or those who wish to teach will benefit in expanding their methodology and repertoire.

Learning Outcomes with Examples

Pedagogy: This half of the course is a study of the methods and practice of teaching piano. The most important aspects of piano instruction are examined, including: technique, repertoire, teaching adults and children, critical analysis and the business of operating a piano studio. Students will study these aspects of the craft before synthesizing what they have learned into an application, through problem-solving exercises, in-class practice of various techniques and informed and critical listening to live and recorded performances.

Literature: This half of the course examines the piano repertoire with focus on performance practice. Selections from the Baroque to the Contemporary will be analyzed in detail, from the printed score, from recordings and from live performances. Special consideration will be given to the level of the students before assigning piano pieces for teaching or performance.

Piano Performance: A portion of the class will include a piano master class with Guest teachers. Students who are not performing will be adjudicating the performances and learning performance practice and how to prepare for recitals, auditions and exams.

Graded Assessment

Class participation: 25% Written assignments 25%
Fall and Winter Exams: 50%

There will be short assignments on a bi-weekly basis. Since lectures alternate between literature and pedagogy students will have two weeks to complete assigned work.

Class participation will include interactive dialogue and written assignments. Students will not receive participation marks if they do not attend classes.

Grading, Assignment Submission, Lateness Penalties and Missed Tests

Grading: The grading scheme for the course conforms to the 9-point grading system used in undergraduate programs at York (e.g., A+ = 9, A = 8, B+ - 7, C+ = 5, etc.). Assignments and tests will bear either a letter grade designation or a corresponding number grade (e.g. A+ = 90 to 100, A = 80 to 90, B+ = 75 to 79, etc.)
(For a full description of York grading system see the York University Undergraduate Calendar - http://calendars.registrar.yorku.ca/pdfs/ug2004cat/calg4_5_acadinfo.pdf)

Students may take a limited number of courses for degree credit on an ungraded (pass/fail) basis. For full information on this option see Alternative Grading Option in the Faculty of Fine Arts section of the Undergraduate Calendar - http://calendars.registrar.yorku.ca/calendars/2010-2011/faculty_rules/FA/grading.htm
Assignment Submission: Proper academic performance depends on students doing their work not only well, but on time. Accordingly, assignments for this course must be received on the due date specified for the assignment. Assignments are to be performed in class time as required by the instructor.

Lateness Penalty: Assignments received later than the due date will be subject to a penalty (one grade per week.) Exceptions to the lateness penalty for valid reasons such as illness, compassionate grounds, etc., may be entertained by the Course Instructor but will require supporting documentation (e.g., a doctor’s letter).

"20% Rule"

No examinations or tests collectively worth more than 20% of the final grade in a course will be given during the final 14 calendar days of classes in a term. The exceptions to the rule are classes which regularly meet Friday evenings or on Saturday and/or Sunday at any time, and courses offered in the compressed summer terms.

Final course grades may be adjusted to conform to Program or Faculty grades distribution profiles.
