ESSAYS AND PROJECTS DUE IN CLASS

ESSAYS AND PROJECTS
It is important that we consult closely on all aspects of essay writing and projects. The first assignment is an annotated bibliography on the topic chosen for your essay/project. You should select a topic for your essay/project by the end of the fourth week of term; there are some suggested topics listed below but I am open to ideas for research on all aspects of Romanesque and Gothic art and architecture. One of the key factors is to make sure that appropriate literature is available on the subject you plan to research; that is where I can help.

You are strongly advised to discuss your intended topic with me so that I may assist with bibliographical and organizational matters.

The next step is for you to go ahead with the research, always keeping in mind that you have to organize the material into a coherent thesis. I tend to work with a collection of key points and images which I try to arrange in as straightforward a fashion as possible. Then, each point can be amplified/embroidered as necessary.

You should aim at having an outline completed two weeks before the due date of the essay. Once again, you are strongly advised to consult with me to discuss the outline of your essay.

You are now ready to prepare the final draft. Use a correct and consistent form of footnotes or endnotes in citing references - consult standard manuals of form. Footnotes (endnotes) are required not only when you quote from a particular source but also when you take up an idea, theory or point from any source.

Remember that penalties for plagiarism are severe - for York University Policy on Academic Honesty see: http://www.yorku.ca/secretariat/policies/document.php?document=69#_Toc89156096). See also: http://www.yorku.ca/academicintegrity. No extensions are given for essays or projects except for valid medical reasons (medical certificate required). Essays and projects handed in late will be penalized one full grade point per day.
USES AND ABUSES OF THE INTERNET

The Internet can be both a blessing and a curse. On the plus side, most library catalogues are available online. Therefore, you are able to do things like catalogue searches at home and avoid the possibility of having to wait for a terminal in a library. Similarly, an increasing amount of archival material is now available on-line; much museum, gallery and historical material can now be accessed this way, including images of illuminated manuscripts. Also, a Google search on any topic/building/manuscript etc., can turn up some excellent, little-known material; my rule is now to Google everything! On the down side, it is often assumed that a particular web site will provide accurate and the most up-to-date information on a topic. This is absolutely NOT the case! Many web sites are very poorly researched and may even give inaccurate information. Always remember that web sites can be posted by anyone; there is no check on the system. By contrast, seriously researched academic publications - whether books from academic presses or articles in academic journals – have undergone a peer-review process, one that involved two, three or even four ‘expert’ readers. Thus it makes good sense to make full use of traditional published sources in the library – periodical articles in specialized journals are especially useful (many available on jstor).

To end this section on a positive note, the Corpus of Romanesque Sculpture in Britain and Ireland has published a number of buildings on line at www.crsbi.ac.uk It is an excellent site and offers great opportunities for original research. The same is true for Mapping Gothic France: http://mappinggothic.org/
