School of the Arts, Media, Performance and Design Department of Theatre FA/THEA 3050 3.00 Devised Theatre in Practice I * Wednesdays 8:30-11:30pm (Zoom/ACE 207—TBD) * Fridays 8:30-11:30am (Zoom/ACE 207—TBD) Instructor: David Jansen Email: djansen@yorku.ca Office Hours: by appointment only. Expanded Description THEA 3050 3.00 Devised Theatre in Practice I builds upon the course work of THEA 2050 and THEA 2051 offering students an opportunity to develop a body of knowledge and skills for devising theatre. Through exercises, improvisations, journaling, training sessions, and the creation and presentation of solo and group work, participants will develop the investigative and expressive tools of the theatre devisor. Collaboration, experimentation, communication, openness, and curiosity are the foundations of this curriculum. Topics and Concepts Developing strategies for collaboration and creation is essential to any theatre practitioner; and students of THEA 3050 will be exposed to the kinds of questions and challenges that professional theatre makers consistently encounter. What inspires our curiosity and desire to create? How do we gather material? How do we begin to explore? How do we infuse joy, audacity, and creative generosity into the process, while maintaining the necessary rigour that creation demands? How do we refine and shape our material? How do we organize our creative roles? How do we communicate throughout this process? THEA 3050 is based on a curriculum of hard and soft skills that seek to address these questions. Methodologies for practice include physical and verbal improvisation, deep listening, the gestic body, dramaturgies of chance, and other methodologies that will allow students to create their own devising strategies. We will also look at methodologies for discussing and critiquing our work, looking at processes that allow for the inclusion and expression of multiple perspectives and sensibilities, embracing creative consensus and dissensus. The course is organized into training sessions, group exercises, workshops and presentation days. Remote Learning The entire term’s course will be conducted online using Zoom via Moodle. Assuming that there will be some students who cannot physically attend studio sessions due to their living arrangements, I have chosen not to propose radically different experiences for different groups.
However, if we find that the entire class is able to meet in person (either in smaller groups or as one group), I will look into the possibility of scheduling occasional studio sessions. This will only occur if there is unanimous consensus. All studio classes would operate in strict adherence to York University’s health and safety guidelines. 2. Technical Requirements As there will be no in-class interactions or activities on campus, unless we meet the conditions outlined above, please note that this course depends on remote teaching and learning. Therefore, you will be expected to take part via Zoom video-conferencing. This means that you will need to have access to stable, relatively high-speed Internet connection; a computer with webcam and microphone, and/or a smart device with these features. One way to determine your internet connection and speed is to run an online test. There are a number available, but one such site is Speedtest.

dramaturgical, and directorial skills that will allow them to embark on their own creative processes; • Gained a deeper understanding of how process, improvisation, collaboration, and discipline are central to devising theatre; • An enhanced ability to articulate their artistic goals; • An enhanced ability to offer and receive effective and respectful critical feedback about their own work and that of their classmates; • A greater confidence in their communicative and collaborative skills. Graded Assessment Two Draft Showings (September 30 & November 20): 5% each Solo Piece (October 9): 15% Journal # 1 (due October 9): 10% Group Piece (November 29): 15% Journal # 2 (due December 3): 10% Studio Work (Participation, Technique, Risk Taking): 30% Attendance 10% Additional Information Attendance and punctuality are mandatory. Though I will always be sympathetic to the demands of this term’s extraordinary nature, the discipline that comes from consistent and punctual attendance is intrinsic both to the course and to your preparation as theatre professionals. You will be given grace for one lateness/absence without a doctor’s note. More than that will result in a 2 mark deduction from your attendance mark. If you are absent for 3 classes without a doctor’s note, this will result in course failure. Either online or in-studio, students should wear clothing they feel comfortable moving in. I am aware that students will have varying degrees of space in which to move at home. We will always and happily work within whatever constraints you have.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION FOR STUDENTS A Note on Challenging Content One of the central educational goals of the Theatre Department is to produce socially conscious artists — artists who are aware of and capable of participating in challenging dialogues about social injustice and inequality. This means that our courses, public events, and productions often grapple with difficult subject matter, including sex, violence, terror, and illness (among other topics). While these presentations will no doubt provoke strong emotions and cause discomfort, we feel that the diverse experiences they promote are also essential to the development of our students’ critical faculties, empathy, and understanding of the world. Rather than warning our students in advance about every potentially uncomfortable topic that they might encounter in the 5 course of their studies, we instead encourage students to meet them head on in the classroom, in rehearsals, and performances, and to engage in civil and compassionate debate about the possibilities and effects of staging difficult knowledge. If you require an accommodation related to your participation in Theatre experiences, please ensure that you share relevant documentation with your course director. Academic Accommodation for Students with Disabilities While all individuals are expected to satisfy the requirements of their program of study and to aspire to achieve excellence, the university recognizes that persons with disabilities may require reasonable accommodation to enable them to perform at their best. The university encourages students with disabilities to register with Student Accessibility Services (SAS) to discuss their accommodation needs as early as possible in the term to establish the recommended academic accommodations that will be communicated to Course Directors as necessary. Please let me know as early as possible in the term if you anticipate requiring academic accommodation so that we can discuss how to consider your accommodation needs within the context of this course. https://accessibility.students.yorku.ca/
Excerpt from Senate Policy on Academic Accommodation for Students with Disabilities: 1. Pursuant to its commitment to sustaining an inclusive, equitable community in which all members are treated with respect and dignity, and consistent with applicable accessibility legislation, York University shall make reasonable and appropriate accommodations in order to promote the ability of students with disabilities to fulfill the academic requirements of their programs. This policy aims to eliminate systemic barriers to participation in academic activities by students with disabilities. All students are expected to satisfy the essential learning outcomes of courses. Accommodations shall be consistent with, support and preserve the academic integrity of the curriculum and the academic standards of courses and programs. For further information please refer to: York University Academic Accommodation for Students with Disabilities Policy. ACADEMIC POLICIES / INFORMATION: The Senate Academic Standards, Curriculum and Pedagogy Committee (ASCP) provides a Student Information Sheet that includes: York’s Academic Honesty Policy and Procedures Academic Integrity Web site Access/Disability Ethics Review Process for Research Involving Human Participants Religious Observance Accommodation Student Code of Conduct Alternate Exam and Test Scheduling “20% Rule” - No examinations or tests collectively worth more than 20% of the final grade in a course will be given during the final 14 calendar days of classes in a term. The exceptions to the rule are classes which regularly meet Friday evenings or on Saturday and/or Sunday at any time, and courses offered in the compressed summer terms. Final course grades may be adjusted to 6 conform to Program or Faculty grades distribution profiles.
http://secretariat.info.yorku.ca/files/CourseInformationForStudentsAugust20121.pdf Grading Scheme and Feedback Policy - The Senate Grading Scheme and Feedback Policy stipulates that (a) the grading scheme (i.e. kinds and weights of assignments, essays, exams, etc.) be announced, and be available in writing, within the first two weeks of class, and that, (b) under normal circumstances, graded feedback worth at least 15% of the final grade for Fall, Winter or Summer Term, and 30% for ‘full year’ courses offered in the Fall/Winter Term be received by students in all courses prior to the final withdrawal date from a course without receiving a grade.  The Key Points of York's Policy on Academic Honesty  York's Senate Policy on Academic Honesty affirms and clarifies the general obligation for all members of the University to maintain the highest standards of academic honesty. In particular, the policy: • Recognizes the general responsibility of all faculty members to foster acceptable standards of academic conduct and of students to be mindful of and abide by such standards; • Defines the types of conduct that are regarded as offences against the standards of academic honesty, including plagiarism, cheating, impersonation, and other forms of academic misconduct; • Defines the penalties that can be imposed on a student who is found to have committed plagiarism or any other form of academic misconduct; • Outlines the procedures for dealing with students who are accused of violating the Senate Policy on Academic Honesty. Note: a lack of familiarity with the Senate Policy cannot be used as a defence by those accused of academic misconduct. Range of Penalties for Plagiarism When verified, violations of academic honesty may lead to the following penalties – imposed singly or in combination depending on the severity of the offence: • Written disciplinary warning or reprimand • Required completion of an academic honesty assignment • Make-up assignment, examination or rewriting a work, subject to a lowered grade • Lower grade on the assignment, examination or work • Lower grade in the course • Failure in the course • Permanent grade of record • Notation on transcript • Suspension from the University • Expulsion from the University • Withholding or rescinding a York degree, diploma or certificate If the offence is a second or subsequent one for the student, or is in combination with another offence, the Senate Policy recommends consideration of a severe penalty. 7 For further information on the penalties for academic misconduct, please see York's Senate Policy on Academic Honesty. HARASSMENT GUIDELINES: These guidelines explain what sexual harassment is, and what it is not, in the context of the Department of Theatre. We also hope to decrease any chance for misunderstanding surrounding activities, such as costume fitting, that are absolutely essential to the teaching and craft of theatre. What should you expect? What are the warning signals that something might be wrong? As we know, theatre reflects life; and life has its share of sex, violence, murder, insanity, cruelty and terror, as well as romance and hilarity. To teach students to evoke an empathetic response in audiences involves the simulation of physical violence and dealing with strong emotions in the classroom, in rehearsals and in performances. Clearly, we cannot avoid these topics, so we meet them head-on in the classroom. The York policy lists “unnecessary touching or patting” as behaviour indicative of sexual harassment. However, in the Department of Theatre, touching routinely happens in acting/directing classes and in costume fittings. In acting, voice and movement classes, students will be touched in the abdomen, diaphragm area, rib cage, chest, spine, back, shoulders, limbs, neck and head to assist the student in proper breathing, relaxation of tensions, alignment or similar instruction. At no time should a teacher, without the student’s permission, touch those parts of a student’s body that would normally be covered by a two-piece bathing suit. At no time in an acting class will a student be asked to remove intimate apparel. The removal of clothing, however, is integral to a costume fitting. Getting changed into or out of a costume is done in the privacy of a closed fitting room, but then the costume designer and/or the cutter building the costume will have to touch the costume (and therefore the student in the costume) anywhere that it needs fitting. The costume may also include undergarments that are not the student’s (e.g. corsets for women), that require the removal of the student’s own undergarments, and costume undergarments also require fittings. No students will be asked to put on or remove any item of underclothing in the presence of any other person. A danger signal in physical contact could be unnecessarily prolonged touching, or touching body parts not involved in the current teaching. Students who feel uncomfortable about touch from the teacher, staff member or another student have a responsibility to speak to the teacher about opting out, or to discuss the problem with York’s Centre for Human Rights, South Ross, Suite 327, 416-736-5682 / TTY: 416-650-8023, rights@yorku.ca As well as physical contact, there is also psychological contact and gender harassment. Sexual harassment can occur with no physical contact at all: psychological contact can therefore be a 8 more difficult area to ascertain than physical contact since it involves words, intonations or body language. Theatre training must deal with sex. For example, some of the discussions needed in acting classes are of a sexually explicit nature. There is no way for students to fully explore the nature of acting without being honest, to some level, with their personal lives. Gender harassment consists of derogatory or degrading remarks directed towards members of one gender or sexual preference group. These are most often directed at a woman, women in general, or homosexuals. Gender harassment is definitely sexual harassment. If you feel that sexual harassment may have occurred, speak to the teacher, the class rep, your faculty advisor, or to the Centre for Human Rights, South Ross, Suite 327, 416-736-5682 / TTY: 416-650-8023, rights@yorku.ca Sexual assault awareness and resources information is available on the York website and we encourage you to also carefully review this information. You shouldn't ever feel guilty or be made to feel guilty about reporting a problem! DISPUTES: The following steps are the steps to be taken in the event of unresolved issues within the class: - If your class has a tutorial leader or studio instructor, speak to your instructor first. - If unresolved, speak to the Course Director. - If unresolved, contact the Chair of the Department at thechair@yorku.ca. IMPORTANT UNIVERSITY SESSIONAL DATES (where you will find
