Prerequisite
Introduction to Psychology (PSYC 1010 6.0) or equivalent with a minimum grade of C.
1. The Purpose of the Course

The psychology of family differs from many other courses offered in psychology. It combines theory-based with applied research to a much greater extent than other areas of psychology (except possibly social psychology), and there is more open debate in the literature about basic assumptions than you will find in other areas. As well, to some extent, it crosses into other academic disciplines, especially sociology. The purpose of this course is to survey the major approaches of the area, particularly as they have been applied to various topic areas (e.g., divorce, mate selection), and to explore basic assumptions made about family/families. In short, then, this course is designed to expose you to a variety of ways in which psychologists have thought about and researched families.

2. Your Responsibilities

I will do all that I can to make this course an educational experience. I hope to be able to communicate why studying the varied aspects of family is important. The course takes place in a 'largish' teaching environment and, as such, presents certain difficulties. First, there is a tendency for students to sit back and receive information and then recycle it for the examinations. Don't be afraid to ask questions or to ask for clarification or to ask me to repeat information. It's highly likely that you will not be the only person encountering difficulty. Second, don't accept everything that I say uncritically. Everyone has biases and you should not be afraid to question my assumptions. I will try as much as possible to make them explicit, but I encourage you to think about what I say in a critical fashion. Third, you may not capture audio or video or still images of me without my explicit permission. This includes audiotaping lectures, using a webcam to capture images of me lecturing or taking still photographs of me. Do note that in this course, you will have access to audio lecture capture which includes the audio component of the lecture along with images of the material presented on the lecture hall screen. This is available in Moodle. Be aware that once the course is finished, you will no longer have access to these files.

You are expected to abide by the York University Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities, available at http://www.yorku.ca/oscr/pdfs/CodeofRightsandResponsibilities.pdf. In class, I expect that all cell phones and pagers be placed in a non-ringing mode (vibrate or off). If your phone goes off during lecture, I expect you to leave the lecture hall to answer it. If you are using a laptop during the lecture and you are using it for purposes other than note-taking, I may ask that you shut it off as it may disturb other students around you. Headphones attached to MP3 players, phones, computers, etc. are not to be worn in class, as the noise emanating from them may be disruptive to other students. Conversations that take place when I am lecturing are disruptive to me and to the students around you. I expect that this will not be a problem, but should it be, I will take action to deal with it.

3. My Responsibilities

My responsibilities lie in three areas. First, as course instructor, I will respond to your inquiries as quickly as possible. There are also teaching assistants for this course who will serve as a resource for you. I hold office hours weekly. See page 1 of the syllabus for this information or click the contact information topic on Moodle. If you send an e-mail during my office hours, I will do my best to answer it during that time period. If you send an e-mail at other times, we endeavour to answer all e-mail within 24 hours on weekdays. An e-mail sent on the weekend is unlikely to be answered until the following Monday. I also set aside time at the beginning of every class to answer questions. Second, we will return graded material as quickly as possible. Marks will be posted on Moodle (click on the grades link under Administration). If you wish to see your exam, you may do so during office hours. Assignments will be returned to you with an attached grading sheet. Third, I come to lectures prepared and enthusiastic. I hope to encourage you to think about the material and engage with it as fully as possible.

4. Evaluation

There will be two exams, each worth 40% of the total course mark and a written assignment worth 20% of the total course mark. To pass the course, you must receive a total course grade of 50% or better. The dates on which exams occur in this course are listed on the attached schedule of events. The exams are multiple choice in nature and are 2 hours in duration. More specific information about the exams will be posted on Moodle – click on the exam information topic. When you come to the exam, you must present acceptable photo identification in order to be admitted – acceptable identification includes a York University identification card, a government issued card, such as a Health Card or Driver’s Licence or a passport. Please note that there are chapters covered on each examination which will not be the topic of a lecture – students are responsible for this textbook material on their own, though I will gladly answer questions on the material in class.

The short written assignment worth 20% of your course mark entails reading an assigned paper and responding to a set of structured questions. This must be done in 4 typed, double-spaced pages, and the assignment is to be submitted in person, either during my office hours or at the beginning of class (If you hand it in at the end of class, it is considered late and a late penalty is applied. If you hand it in to the Psychology Department office or under my door during class hours, it is also considered late.). Note that the assignment is due on March 20, 2011 by 2:30 p.m.. The following penalties apply for late assignment submission – 25% of the grade for the first 24 hours or any part thereof. For each 24 hours (or part thereof) after this, 10% of the grade will be deducted.

Grading: The grading scheme for the course conforms to the 9-point grading system used in undergraduate programs at York (e.g., A+ = 9, A = 8, B+ = 7, C+ = 5, etc.). Assignments and tests will bear either a letter grade designation or a corresponding number grade (e.g. A+ = 90 to 100, A = 80 to 90, B+ = 75 to 79, etc.) (For a full description of York grading system see the York University Undergraduate Calendar http://www.registrar.yorku.ca/calendars/2011-2012/academic/grades/index.htm

5. Academic Honesty

I am reminding you that the Senate Policy on Academic Honesty will be strictly enforced in this course (Policy available at http://www.yorku.ca/secretariat/legislation/senate/acadhone.htm). There is an academic integrity tutorial and quiz on the York University website – it reviews the Senate Policy on Academic Honesty and provides examples of problems with academic honesty. You can get to this site by clicking on the following link:

http://www.yorku.ca/tutorial/academic_integrity/
I strongly advocate that you take this tutorial and read the assignment instructions very carefully. I take all breaches of academic honesty very seriously and strongly support the Senate policy on such matters. Don’t jeopardize your academic career by engaging in academic dishonesty.

6. Missing an Exam

   First and foremost, read the Psychology Department webpage on missed tests and exams, available at http://www.yorku.ca/health/psyc/advising_missedtests.html

   If you have a very serious and fully documented reason for being excused from an exam (e.g., death in the immediate family, formally documented visit to an emergency room or a condition that SERIOUSLY affects your ability to take the exam), you may take a make-up exam in lieu of the exam missed. You must contact me at least one day in advance of the exam and provide documentation in order to be permitted to take a make-up exam. In the case of an emergency, contact me as soon as possible. If you cannot reach me, a message can be left on my voice-mail, which records the date and time of your call. In order to write a deferred examination, you MUST follow the steps outlined below.

   If you miss an exam for other reasons or cannot provide documentation, you will receive a grade of zero. If you miss the examination on the deferred midterm examination date for whatever reason, then you will write an exam on the date of the final that covers the whole course (i.e., worth 80% of your course grade). If you miss the deferred final examination for whatever reason, a grade of zero will be recorded for you and you must then petition your home faculty to be permitted to write the final examination. Deferred midterm examinations take place on a single scheduled date that will be determined during the semester. Deferred final examinations take place on a date set by the Department of Psychology. More information about deferred examinations will be made available on the course Moodle site.

   If you are requesting a deferred examination under the Religious Accommodation Guidelines, please read the following.

   The italicized material below is taken verbatim from https://w2prod.sis.yorku.ca/Apps/WebObjects/cdm.woa/wa/regobs

   Religious Accommodation Guidelines

   Religious Accommodation Guidelines: Final Examinations

   Students who, because of religious commitment cannot write a formally scheduled examination (December and April examination periods) on the date scheduled, should contact the course instructor no later than three weeks prior to the start of the examination period to arrange an alternative examination date. An Examination Accommodation form is available for this purpose in Student Client Services, Bennett Centre for Student Services.
When arrangements between the student and instructor cannot be made, or if the student does not feel comfortable about approaching the instructor to request a religious accommodation, then the student should contact the associate dean of the Faculty in which the course is offered. Students are required to contact the associate dean not less than 14 days prior to the start of the examination and, if requested to do so, present evidence concerning the religious obligations involved.

The associate dean may consider a number of options to provide an accommodation. The choice will depend on the student’s particular circumstance.

For example, the accommodations may include:

(a) Treating the request as a conflict, and accommodating it within the examination period, or
(b) Providing a deferred examination as soon as possible.

Religious Accommodation Guidelines: Other than Final Examinations

Students, who because of religious commitment cannot meet academic obligations, other than formally scheduled examinations (December and April examination period), on certain holy days are responsible for giving their instructor reasonable notice (not less than 14 days), of each conflict.

Solutions may include:

(a) Rescheduling the evaluation, or
(b) Preparing an alternative evaluation for that particular student, or
(c) Recalculating the total evaluation in the course to eliminate the component that has been missed.

When the instructor and student are unable to agree on suitable accommodation, the matter will be referred to the associate dean who may request that the student present evidence concerning the religious obligations involved. The associate dean will convey the decision to the instructor and student.

You may contact the Dean's Office at the Faculty of Health at 416-736-5124.

If you are requesting a deferred examination for medical reasons, please read the following.

► For a missed mid-term examination, you MUST include:

1. a statement by an attending physician which includes the following information:
   (taken verbatim from http://www.yorku.ca/health/psyc/advising_missedtests.html).

   i. full name, mailing address, telephone number of the physician.
ii. state the nature of the illness and its duration (i.e., specific dates covered), and

iii. an indication of whether the illness and/or medication prescribed would have SERIOUSLY affected the student’s ability to study and perform over the period in question.

NOTE: the physician's office may be contacted to verify that the forms were completed by the physician.

and

2. a completed Deferred Exam Request Form (available on the course Moodle site).

I must sign the Request Form - you must obtain my signature in person during my office hours or at class. DO NOT LEAVE FORMS FOR ME TO SIGN. Once I have signed your form, you will be informed of the date and time of this examination.

► For a missed final examination, you MUST include:

1. a statement by an attending physician which includes the following information:
   (taken verbatim from http://www.yorku.ca/health/psyc/advising_missedtests.html).

   i. full name, mailing address, telephone number of the physician.

   ii. state the nature of the illness and its duration (i.e., specific dates covered), and

   iii. an indication of whether the illness and/or medication prescribed would have SERIOUSLY affected the student’s ability to study and perform over the period in question.

   NOTE: the physician's office may be contacted to verify that the forms were completed by the physician.

   and

2. a completed Deferred Standing Agreement Form (available from the Registrar’s Office at http://www.registrar.yorku.ca/pdf/deferred_standing_agreement.pdf).

I must sign the Registrar’s Office Deferred Standing Agreement Form - you must obtain my signature in person during my office hours. The Deferred Standing Agreement Form is sent to the Registrar's Office but no grade is submitted for you. Once your deferred examination is graded, I submit a grade to the Registrar's Office for you.

There may be non-medical circumstances in which you will be permitted to write a deferred exam. Tests/exams missed due to non-medical circumstances must be supported by appropriate documentation, i.e., death certificates, obituary notice, automobile accident reports, airline/bus ticket/receipt for emergency travel (with date of booking on ticket), etc.. Airline/train/bus ticket/receipts for emergency travel must indicate destination, departure, and return dates. This documentation must accompany the Psychology Department form noted above and, if the exam is a final exam, the Deferred Standing Agreement form.

Examination dates are in this course syllabus. You know that you will have your mid-term exam on February 14, 2012 and the final exam will take place during the Winter exam period (April 6 – 23, 2012), so if you have conflicting personal events scheduled, drop the course now.

Be aware that the following are examples of reasons given by students in the past for requesting a deferred examination that are NOT considered to be legitimate (this is NOT an exhaustive list!).

- weddings
- feeling stressed
- family reunions
- coaching sports teams
- having one other examination within 24 hours of this one (see Registrar's Office regulations on examinations)
- studying so hard I made myself dizzy
- not being able to access Moodle
- having to work
- mild colds
- holidays/vacations
- shift work
- not feeling prepared
- not having the course syllabus and not knowing when the exam was scheduled
- not being able to find the examination room
- losing my notes/textbook

For more information on deferred standing, see http://www.registrar.yorku.ca/exams/deferred/
7. Accommodation of Students With Disabilities

I am happy to accommodate students who write exams through the Alternate Examination Centre. It’s important that you have a clear understanding of the conditions under which I am willing to make these accommodations.
