Be a part of the team that is leading the modernization of health analytics in the Government of Ontario, and see the impact your work will make in the lives of Ontario citizens. This is your opportunity to join the Health Analytics Branch of the Ministry of Health & Long Term Care and participate in varied and challenging work in health analytic research and the development of recommendations on analytical methodology, indicators and statistical applications.

In a customer focused team environment, you will: provide analytical guidance, advice and support to clients; identify and define clients' health analytic needs to lead smaller project initiatives with a particular emphasis on accountability and performance indicator development; provide support to Senior Health Analysts on larger projects, including needs assessments, analyses and syntheses of research and other material.

Qualifications: Knowledge of performance measurement and management, quantitative research design, statistical techniques, modeling, analytical methods/skills and health databases. Knowledge of health analytics and health systems indicator development. Knowledge of theories, concepts, methods, and measures in one or more specialized areas (epidemiology, health economics, health geography, biostatistics); health system performance measurement or health status assessment. Knowledge of the Ontario health care system (e.g. hospitals, community care access centres, long-term care homes, and Local Health Integration Networks). Knowledge of applicable rules, legislative authorities, regulations, guidelines, and licensing agreements governing use and access to data files. Demonstrated communication, consultative and relationship management skills to provide expertise and advice to clients and to maintain relationships with internal and external stakeholders. Negotiation, facilitation and teamwork skills to provide guidance to clients, make recommendations to senior staff and lead project or work teams. Project management skills to provide project planning and leadership on small and large scale projects.
