

THINGS YOU NEED TO KNOW...

HUMANE EDUCATION MANAGER: OSPCA

What is a Humane Education Manager?

Design and organize programs on animal behaviour to teach to in elementary schools and camps. These programs inform children on how to gauge the needs of domestic and wild animals, through a humane methodology

What Schooling is Required for the OSPCA?

No specific type of schooling is required! However, teaching, volunteering in shelters and having an interest in environmental studies would provide you with great knowledge and experience!

Qualifying Skills!

To be a Humane Education Manager, you must care about reform, social justice, and animals! You must be social and be able to speak to adults and children!

Flexible Work Environment!

Get up early and work from the office or design and organize from the comfort of your own home! (Travelling to schools to teach programs is a requirement)

Gain experience in a Non-Profit Organization!

The OSPCA is a non-profit organization, however employees receive financial compensation and benefits! A pension is typically not included within those benefits
