

The Faculty of Education at York University invites highly qualified applicants for an Assistant Professor position in Educational Psychology and Inclusion. This is a tenure-track appointment to the Professorial Stream to commence July 1, 2024.

The Faculty of Education is one of the leading faculties of education in Canada with a particular focus on research with social impact. We are an engaged and deliberately diverse community of faculty, educators, staff, and students committed to academic and research excellence, democratic practices and the promotion of decolonizing, equitable, and inclusive education.

The successful applicant will contribute fully and broadly to the Bachelor of Education, the Bachelor of Arts in Educational Studies, and the Graduate Program within the Faculty.

Candidate Qualifications:

- Degree: PhD or PhD by the appointment's start in Educational Psychology or a related field is required.
- Scholarship:
  - A coherent and well-articulated program of research and specialization in key areas of educational psychology and inclusive education in schools and communities focusing on psychological processes (e.g., regulatory, affective, cognitive), contextual features (e.g., family, school, neighborhood) and their interaction in the social and emotional lives of children/adolescents, and their families and communities, broadly defined.
  - A commitment to research for positive social impact.
  - A record or evident promise of generating innovative, substantive, rigorous, and as appropriate, externally funded research and/or research creation.
  - A record or evident promise of making influential contributions and demonstrating excellence in the field of Educational Psychology with a record of publications (or forthcoming publications) in significant journals in this field; and/or other scholarly productions; presentations at major conferences; awards and accolades; and strong recommendations from referees of high standing).
- Teaching:
  - A record or evident promise of excellence in teaching and dedication to students that includes ability to develop and deliver teaching in quantitative methodologies to graduate level (e.g., teaching and supervision record; teaching statement; teaching accomplishments and pedagogical innovations including in high priority areas such as experiential education and technology enhanced learning; teaching evaluations).
  - Suitability for prompt appointment to the Faculty of Graduate Studies, given that the position will involve graduate teaching and supervision.
- Additional:
  - Ability to support both advanced quantitative and mixed methods teaching and to support program evaluation.
  - Strong commitment to the social justice goals of the Faculty.

York University acknowledges its presence on the traditional territory of many Indigenous Nations. The area known as Tkaronto has been care taken by the Anishinabek Nation, the Haudenosaunee Confederacy, and the Huron-Wendat. It is now home to many First Nation, Inuit and Métis communities. We acknowledge the current treaty holders, the Mississaugas of the Credit First Nation. This territory is subject of the Dish with One Spoon Wampum Belt Covenant, an agreement to peaceably share and care for the Great Lakes region.
