Land Acknowledgment

York University recognizes that many Indigenous Nations have longstanding relationships with the territories upon which York University campuses are located that precede the establishment of York University. York University acknowledges its presence on the traditional territory of many Indigenous Nations. The area known as Tkaronto has been care taken by the Anishinabek Nation, the Haudenosaunee Confederacy, and the Huron-Wendat. It is now home to many First Nations, Inuit and Métis communities. We acknowledge the current treaty holders, the Mississaugas of the Credit First Nation. This territory is subject of the Dish with One Spoon Wampum Belt Covenant, an agreement to peaceably share and care for the Great Lakes region.

RIGHT THE FUTURE

Welcome to Glendon, a faculty of York University, located on a picturesque, park-like campus uniquely positioned in midtown Toronto. Over more than a half-century, Glendon has built a reputation for providing a supportive, flexible, and inclusive learning environment where students can challenge their limits to reach their full potential. Beyond an education, here you get a transformative experience: you will not be the same person once you cross the stage to collect your degree. Join us and be part of generations of changemakers who proudly claim Glendon as theirs. Our alumni are now leaders in their fields of expertise: psychology, education, law, journalism, public governance, the arts, translation and interpreting, diplomacy, politics, social justice, environmental issues, business, finance, and science, to name a few.

At Glendon, you'll learn from faculty who are world-leaders in their fields. Our graduates state over and over again that this intimate feel you get from studying on a campus like Glendon made their experience memorable.

We are a reflection of today's world, and we prepare our students for tomorrow's challenges.

Glendon's diverse community is not unique; what makes Glendon stand out is how it uses diversity as a framework for all its programming. We offer a rich learning environment that enhances your experience, thanks to all the languages spoken on campus and of all cultures celebrated throughout the year. We are diverse by design, not by chance. We are a reflection of today's world, and we prepare our students for tomorrow's challenges.

Education is a transformative process, and throughout their time with us, all students have an opportunity to transform by exploring different languages and cultures; some will even choose to spend time abroad in order to further enhance their personal and academic transformation. But whether you go on a student exchange or not, you will gain more than a degree at Glendon: you will learn to go beyond the limits you impose on yourself, or limits that were set for you. In the next pages, you will read about several students who have done just that.

I invite you to start a conversation with us. Reach out to our student ambassadors, come to an Open House and talk to our faculty – we're here to support you every step of the way.

I look forward to meeting you soon.

– Marco Fiola, Principal, Glendon

Looking for an adventure while setting yourself up for career success?

"My time abroad was priceless! What started as a new environment and a challenge quickly became my second home. I spent a semester in Rouen, Normandy France. Studying in another country allowed me to develop a global perspective of my field of study, enrich my language skills, and empower my confidence and independence. When I look back at my time abroad the most special part was being immersed in and adapting to a culture that was completely different than my own."

Learn by doing!

Experiential Education is the application of what you learn in the classroom to a real-life situation. Throughout your studies you'll develop and master new skills that will continuously improve as you continue your journey through life. Employers look at your degree, but they also look at the skills you have gained throughout your program.

Get a work placement opportunity, no matter your program

Students can complete a work placement in a new industry or workplace of interest, regardless of their program of study, while gaining credits towards their degree requirements.

- FIRST YEAR EXAMPLE

Debate with classmates over case studies covering current issues like the human resources simulation in Business Economics
- SECOND YEAR EXAMPLE

Participate in the planning and facilitation of a professional conference or symposium like the Annual International Studies symposium
- THIRD YEAR EXAMPLE

Complete a work placement course to gain professional experience in your discipline like an internship in France with an international focus as part of the Dual Degree
- FOURTH YEAR EXAMPLE

Join a team of students from across York University to help a community partner solve a problem through the C4 capstone course like the AI4GOOD website showcasing the intersection of Artificial Intelligence and ethics

Home or abroad, the choice is yours

- We have over 100 active partners for work placements in Toronto and around the world, including Amnesty International, the Hockey Hall of Fame, the Ontario Public Service and Consulate General of France in Toronto and Los Angeles.
- Our students have completed placements in Quebec, Los Angeles, New York, France, Morocco, Ghana, Peru, Vietnam, Spain and Egypt, just to name a few.

Earn credits towards your degree

- All Glendon work placements guarantee course credit upon completion and these typically represent a half or full year course.
- Work placement and internship courses require between 80 to 240 hours so that you have the flexibility to take other courses at the same time.

New ways of teaching and learning

Research alongside the experts

Research at Glendon focusing on the following United Nations Sustainable Development Goals:

Good Health and Well-being: Professors Cyr, Bellana and Proulx’s research focuses on understanding memory, aging and cognitive health.

Quality Education: Camerise research project with professors Scheffel-Dunand and Péguret ensures that language learners have access to an inclusive and engaging education, as well as the support needed to reach their full and unique potential as bilingual and multilingual Canadians.

Reduce inequalities: Professors Mianda, Coburn, Shahrokni and Cormier conduct research on the impact of COVID-19 on minority communities.

Climate Action and Life on Land: Professors McKinnon and Schoof studied, in partnership with local and international organisations such as Downsview Park and Lewa Wildlife Conservatory, the sharp increase in urban birdwatching and the effects on bird populations.

In the Classroom/Lab

Participate in university research projects with faculty members while earning a competitive wage. Through the Research Apprenticeship program (RAP) and G21, students have the unique opportunity to receive mentorship from a faculty member, develop skills in conducting research, explore their interests, receive credits, and a financial award.

In the Community

Work with local organizations to conduct research, engage in community service or manage an off-campus project.

Student Research Opportunities

As a student at Glendon, you can have a meaningful impact on research and discoveries through:

- Research Practicums
- Paid and Volunteer Research Positions
- Undergraduate Research Fairs
- Labs and Field Courses

Research Apprenticeship Program

Jacob Jongkind, (He/Him)

International Studies, 2nd Year

“I gained valuable experiences in the world of academia beyond the traditional classroom setting. For example, beginning our team’s own research initiative all the way to seeing the final stages of publication. My involvement has been very rewarding and has given me the opportunity to pursue other areas of interest outside the scope of my major and connect with many people at Glendon, in the community and around the world.”

It pays to gain language skills

All degrees at Glendon include a language component; we call it the Glendon Advantage! Studying a new language enables you to gain new communication skills, but it also helps you gain a new perspective on the world, and navigate and manage diversity more effectively, a sought-after skill in today’s world.

Multilingualism and intercultural competency are skills in high demand

- If you want to impact the world with a global career, there is an increased need for a multilingual and multicultural workforce. The ability to conduct business in more than one language, with people from a variety of cultural backgrounds, is increasingly critical. At Glendon, you can gain this advantage by studying French or Spanish.
- A worldwide focus on public health and environmental issues calls for more graduates who can work in the science professions, in increasingly multilingual and multicultural contexts.

The Glendon Advantage

- Bilingual (English-French) candidates are generally paid anywhere from 10% to 30% more in the local job market than monolingual candidates.
- Being able to use more than one language translates into better global employment opportunities.

French and Spanish are two of the official working languages of major organizations like the United Nations and NATO

Watch testimonials from our students:

Language can really take you places

Take your Language Advantage to the next level with a life-changing adventure at one of over 300 destinations with whom York is a partner! Choose from International and Quebec Exchanges, or take a course in our campus in Costa Rica, in France, the Netherlands, Peru, Cuba, Brazil, Mexico, Spain or the USA. You can pack up and go study or work for a semester, summer or full year depending on the exchange.

Natashia, (She/Her)
French Studies and Hispanic Studies, 4th Year (Costa Rica)

Flexible and immersive language learning

At Glendon, language learning is a welcoming, safe and supported journey. We have students of all different language abilities and most of them are learning their second language, most with little to no experience to start. It’s an opportunity that really is open to everyone.

Admission Requirements (It’s not what you might think!)

You don’t need to speak French or be bilingual to start studying at Glendon. In most of our programs, knowledge of either English or French is all it takes.

Language Resources

- Language Training Centre for Studies in French
- ESL Open Learning Centre
- Spanish Resource Centre
- Salon Francophone
- Leslie Frost Library

Pick your path

All our degrees include some courses that are aimed at developing your language and cultural skills, but you might be asking yourself “how many courses would I take? And at what level?” The right blend for you is based on your comfort level and an assessment of your current knowledge of the language. An academic advisor will help you choose the most appropriate option during the enrolment appointment and revise it with you at the end of your first year.

Optional add-ons: higher-level language certifications

For the real language ninjas, it is possible to add one or more of the following credentials to their degree and develop more advanced language skills.

Bilingual Certificate

Take 12 credits on top of the Bilingual Degree requirements, either with French as a Second Language courses or courses in your major that are taught in your non-dominant language.

Bilingual Excellence Certificate

Go the extra mile: Take an additional 12 credits (over and above the Bilingual Certificate requirements) in your non-dominant language. Maintain an average of B or above in all courses and pass a French and English exam before graduation.

Trilingual Excellence Certificate

Maintain an average of B or above in all courses and pass a Spanish, French, and English exam before graduating.

Orientation activities

GL YU prep

Get a jumpstart on your post-secondary transition with this unique four-day pre-orientation program at the end of August. You'll learn tips for adjusting to the academic demands of university life, studying more effectively and adapting to your new environment.

Glendon Orientation (GO) Day

At this mandatory event in September, you will receive essential information about student life, services and resources on campus. You'll meet your Peer Mentor, professors and other students.

Orientation for All

In addition to Glendon Orientation Day, we host dedicated orientation events for 2SLGBTQIA & Allies, International Students, Indigenous students and more.

Breaking down the numbers

Scholarships and Bursaries

EXCITING NEWS!
York automatic entrance awards are now renewable every year for admission averages of 80% + (Canadian high school or CÉGEP).

Bursaries that come up big

- Glendon is the only institution in Toronto to offer 50 bursaries from the ACUFC for Postsecondary Studies in French as a Second Language (FSL), each worth $3,000, to help English-speaking students become bilingual.
- Francophone students are eligible for Glendon’s Bourse d’entrée pour les finissants des écoles de langue française de l’Ontario, each worth $3,000.
- As a Glendon student, you will have the opportunity to win Engagement Awards to recognize leadership, community contributions and academic merit. We can support you in applying to external awards as well.

Take it step by step

STEP

1

Respect deadlines

Make sure you apply before the deadline! Otherwise, you run the risk of not being admitted.

STEP

2

Check the requirements

Make sure to check what courses you will need to have completed to be considered for admission, and anything else your chosen program requires. If additional information is needed as part of the application process, you can expect to receive an email from us after you have applied.

Stay on top of your application

Once you have applied, you'll receive your York U student number. Enter this number in MyFile, the York student portal at yorku.ca/myfile to track the status of your application online, and check the status of your supporting documents. Make sure you pay attention to email and mail messages from York University.

3

Submit

OUAC is the provincial online portal for all Ontario high school student university applications. You simply enter your information and click to submit.

Applicants from outside Ontario (including high school students, university and college transfer students and mature students) can submit their application through OUAC.on.ca or through York University at futurestudents.yorku.ca/requirements/apply, and must ask their previous institution(s) to send their transcripts directly to: Office of Admissions, York University Bennett Centre for Student Services – 3rd Floor Reception 99 Ian Macdonald Blvd Toronto, ON M3J 1P3

Important dates

Here is what you can do to be on track with your admission to Glendon and keep in touch with us.

September – December 2022

Join us for our Fall Campus Day: Open House – November 5. You'll have the chance to speak with our professors and learn about the services we offer.

January – April 2023

January 12, 2023 is the Fall 2023 application deadline for all Ontario high school students; applicants from Canadian international schools; and high school students from Canadian provinces outside Ontario.

Submit your supplementary documentation if you applied to a program that requires supplementary evaluation (Concurrent Education and iBA/BBA dual degree in Business Administration and International Studies).

You don't have to wait to receive an offer of admission to complete the Scholarships and Bursaries application. Submit it early so that you are considered for the most awards possible (from both Glendon and York) – some deadlines are as early as February 15 while the MyFile application closes April 1.

Join us for our Spring events to experience Glendon and discover what it's like to be a student here.

- March Break U – March 13 – 17, 2023
- Experience Glendon: Spring Open House

Keep checking MyFile and your email account, which you provided on your application, for updates to the status of your application.

Ask your questions to a student already enrolled in the program that interests you. Easily book a 15-minute chat with a member of the Glendon Virtual Network!

Congrats, you made it!

Take a moment to celebrate, but don't forget these next steps.

June 2023

The deadline for Ontario high school students to accept their offer is June 1, 2023. As soon as you have accepted your offer, book your enrolment appointment on MyFile. Your course enrolment access time will be emailed to you.

Apply for residence by June 1 if applicable. Your room will be assigned to you in mid-July.

Apply for OSAP by June 30 to ensure your funds are available in early September. Notify the Office of Admissions if you are enrolling in summer school. Your final transcript is required in August.

July – August 2023

Get ready for classes and Orientation! Important dates for the 2023 – 2024 school year will be posted online in the summer of 2023.

Budget for the year ahead. Consider applying for a job on campus through the work-study program or look into applying for a bursary. Scan the code for details.

Late August 2023

Glendon Orientation Week – make new friends! You'll have the support of YU START student leaders and GL Zone peer mentors to help you transition to Glendon.

Early September 2023

Glendon Orientation (GO) Day

Classes Start!
