Course Learning Objectives:

Students will be able to critically evaluate current theory, research and practice in relation to major counselling and psychotherapy approaches.

Students will gain an appreciation of the range of psychotherapeutic approaches and begin to determine the types of counselling approaches most suited to their personal style.

Students will be able to demonstrate their understanding of the course content in both oral and written formats following APA style.

Format: Seminar style. The course will involve a combination of lecture, class discussion, video demonstrations, and student presentations.

Textbook: Corsini, R.J. & Wedding, D. (2014). Current psychotherapies. 10th edition. Illinois: Thomson, Brooks/Cole Publishers.
(Additional readings may be assigned as the course proceeds)

Evaluation:	Fall Take-Home Assignment:	25% (Dec. 5 – Dec. 13)
	Seminar group presentation:	25% (winter term)
	Winter term paper:	30% (due March 27, 2014)
	Class participation:	20% (including “critical evaluations”)

Description of Course Requirements:

Take-home assignment: The assignment will consist of 2 essay-style questions to be answered in approximately 2000 words (total). Questions will be assigned Dec. 5, 2013 and the completed assignment is due Dec.13, 2013 by 4:30 pm in N110 BCSS. The assignment may include any material covered during the fall term. Responses should be prepared on computer and double-spaced. Students are expected to work independently on this assignment. There will be a penalty of one-half letter grade (1 grade point) per day that the assignment is late. Exceptions to the lateness penalty for valid reasons such as illness or compassionate grounds will be considered by the Course Director upon submission by the student of supporting documentation.

Seminar Group Presentation: Students will be required to work collaboratively with two classmates to prepare a seminar presentation of approximately two hours duration. The presentation can include lecture, audiovisual material, exercises, and guided group discussions. The presentation should demonstrate an in-depth appreciation of an issue related to counselling and psychotherapy. A list of suggested topics will be handed out during the second half of the fall term (students may choose alternative topics with the approval of the Course Director). Two weeks prior to the presentation, students will be expected to provide a brief suggested reading list to the class with one or two recommended readings noted with an asterisk (with information about where they may be found online). They also will provide a photocopy of one of the recommended readings to the Course Director at that time. The group will provide an outline and brief summary (approximately 3-5 typed pages) of the presentation to the class on their scheduled presentation date. All group members are expected to contribute equally to the finished product and therefore all members will receive the same grade on the presentation. However, should it become apparent that the work was not shared equitably grades may be assigned differentially to group members.

Winter Term Paper: The term paper may be an elaboration of the same topic as the seminar presentation, or students can choose a different topic (with approval of the Course Director). The paper should include a critical analysis and review of the research literature relevant to the topic and be written in accordance with the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, 6th Edition, 2010. Papers should be approximately 15--20 double-spaced pages (4500--6000 words). Guidelines for writing the paper will be handed out later in the fall term. Due date: March 27, 2014. There will be a penalty of one-half letter grade (1 grade point) for each day late. Exceptions to the lateness penalty for valid reasons will be considered (as noted above).

Class Participation: This will be evaluated on the basis of consistent seminar attendance, active involvement in class discussions, and submission of: 1) written “critical evaluations” of the major therapy approaches, 2) brief written reactions to readings related to students’ class presentations, and 3) audience feedback forms after each student presentation.

NOTE: Last date to drop this course without academic penalty: Feb. 14, 2014

Students who feel that there are extenuating circumstances which may interfere with the successful completion of any course requirements are encouraged to discuss the matter with me as soon as possible to make appropriate arrangements.

Students with learning, mental health, physical, sensory, or medical disabilities who require accommodations in teaching style or evaluation methods should discuss this with me early in the year so that appropriate arrangements can be made.
