Course Description

The aim of this course is to introduce students to the history of psychology as a science, a profession, and a social force. We will investigate how the practices, scope, and objects of psychology have changed over time. We will examine the various schools and systems that have flourished and declined since the eighteenth-century including sensationalism, phrenology, 'brass instruments' psychology, functionalism, behaviorism, psychoanalysis, and cognitive science. Particular attention will be paid to the social place of psychology as the science moved from being the provenance of a few to a mass profession that shaped the daily lives of many. During this period, greater attention was placed upon the inner lives of ordinary people than ever before, and large organizations sought to come to terms with the individual through standardized measures and tests. We study how this situation came about and what its legacy is for the twenty-first century.

Program Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of this course, students should be able to:

1. Generate and evaluate original hypotheses in the history of psychology.
2. Demonstrate an awareness of how the field of psychology has been shaped by its historical context.

Description of Assignments

Document Exercises

Students will complete two (2) document exercises throughout the semester. The instructor will upload a packet of primary source material (a mixture of historical eyewitness accounts, newspaper articles, images, etc.) related to a specific topic. Students will answer a series of factual and interpretive questions using these documents in combination with knowledge derived from lecture and the textbook. Students are expected to work independently and write approximately a thousand (1000) words per document exercise.

Test Policy

Students are expected to write each test on the dates specified. There will be 2 in-class tests in this course. The in-class tests are worth 20% of your final grade respectively. The tests are based on the assigned textbook chapters and the class lectures. Tests will start at 14:30 and will run for one (1) hour. They will consist of approximately 35 to 40 multiple-choice questions. On Test 2, the majority of the questions are non-cumulative, but a small portion of the questions will ask you integrate material from previous sections.

Missed Tests/Midterm Exams/Late Assignment

For any missed test or late assignment, students MUST complete the following online form which will be received and reviewed in the Psychology undergraduate office. At this time, due to COVID-19 an Attending Physician's Statement (APS) is not required, however, a reason for missing an evaluated component in the course must be provided.

HH PSYC: Missed Tests/Exams Form. Failure to complete the form within 48 hours of the original deadline will result in a grade of zero for the missed test.

Class Format and Attendance Policy

Students are expected to attend lecture. Slides will be uploaded to Eclass prior to our meeting and students are encouraged to download these and annotated them. Students are responsible for the content of lectures for tests and the document exercises.

Grading as per Senate Policy

The grading scheme for the course conforms to the 9-point grading system used in undergraduate programs at York (e.g., A+ = 9, A = 8, B+ = 7, C+ = 5, etc.). Assignments and tests* will bear either a letter grade designation or a corresponding number grade (e.g. A+ = 90 to 100, A = 80 to 89, B+ = 75 to 79, etc.)

You are strongly advised to pay close attention to the "Last date to enrol without permission of course instructor" deadlines. These deadlines represent the last date students have unrestricted access to the registration and enrolment system.

When you withdraw from a course, the course remains on your transcript without a grade and is notated as 'W'. The withdrawal will not affect your grade point average or count towards the credits required for your degree.

Academic Accommodation for Students with Disabilities

While all individuals are expected to satisfy the requirements of their program of study and to aspire to do so at a level of excellence, the university recognizes that persons with disabilities may require reasonable accommodation to enable them to do so. The university encourages students with disabilities to register with Student Accessibility Services (SAS) to discuss their accommodation needs as early as possible in the term to establish the recommended academic accommodations that will be communicated to Course Directors as necessary. Please let me know as early as possible in the term if you anticipate requiring academic accommodation so that we can discuss how to consider your accommodation needs within the context of this course.
