Dear Stephanie,

This is to acknowledge receipt of CUPE 3903's response to the University's June 9 invitation for CUPE 3903, Units 1, 2, and 3 to provide proposed dates for an initial meeting to start collective bargaining. Having received your response late in the day on June 16, we can confirm that representatives of the University's bargaining team will be available to meet on the morning of June 29 commencing at 10:00AM.

The University is committed to successfully negotiating renewal collective agreements with CUPE 3903 Units 1, 2, and 3. As noted in my email to you, the University has received CUPE 3903's document production request and we are well underway in gathering much of the information which the University expects to send to CUPE 3903 by June 30, 2023. If we run into unanticipated delays, I will let you know.

We understand that CUPE 3903 is interested in a more expeditious timeline than in past rounds of bargaining and would like to discuss how the parties can work together towards that goal.

The University looks forward to our first meeting.

Sincerely,
