COURSE DESCRIPTION

Is Canadian business headed for a dismal future, or one that is bright? Assessing the prospects of business requires a careful examination of the environment within which business operates. This course offers an examination of the internal and external environment of business and the challenges of managing in the Canadian business environment. Our exploration includes a consideration of internal challenges such as the employee-employer relationship, people management, strategy and organizational structure. External challenges include a consideration of such key areas as competitive, global, political, societal and sustainability challenges. The broad aim is to provide insight into current challenges and opportunities that can critically impact the functioning and fate of business.

COURSE GOALS

1. To identify the key factors which comprise the internal and external environment of business.
2. To understand the potential impact of these challenges on business.
3. To obtain an understanding of the challenges & opportunities present in the Canadian business context.
4. To encourage critical thinking regarding the internal and external challenges that must be addressed as part of successful business strategy.
