

Antigone

Visual Story

Antigone
declares her intention to bury Polyneices
regardless of the consequences.

Creon declares
to the populace
of Thebes (represented by the chorus)
that Polyneices
will remain unburied on the battlefield.

Creon is told someone
has buried Polyneices.
Creon orders
the guard to find out who
the culprit is

The guard
returns to Creon
with Antigone.
Creon asks if Antigone buried Polyneices..
Antigone
confirms that she did.

Ismene is then brought to Creon for questioning. Ismene says that she helped, but Antigone insists that she did not.

Haemon tries to reason with Creon, saying that the citizens of Thebes will turn against Creon if he executes Antigone.

Teiresias, the blind prophet then warns Creon that the gods are unhappy for the lack of proper burial and that his son's death shall be the punishment.

Creon then decrees that Antigone will be sealed inside of a cave

Antigone
laments the life
she will not lead, and condemns the people who condemn her
for burying her brother.

Creon performs
the proper burial rituals for Polyneices'
body

Creon then
rushes to free Antigone, but it is too late, she is dead, and Haemon has killed himself for her.

